Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow

13. Matata was a student of Zamani Research Institute pursuing Social Work and Community Development level 6. He was a very bright student in class. Everyone was moved by his outstanding character. As he was nearly completing his studies his class teacher noted Matata's constant absence in class. He followed up on the matter and imposed strict conditions to curb it. Matata lacked choice; he came to class but throughout the lesson, he was dizzy and sleepy that he failed the assessment exam. The class representative reported the matter to the coordinator of guidance and counseling and Matata was invited to the therapy session. The therapist referred the matter to another experienced counselor at the nearby rehabilitation center because Matata could not open up. During the session he said that he had been introduced to drugs and substance abuse by his peers. The therapy sessions were successful and Matata was admitted to a rehabilitation center. Matata now is a reformed student who is currently a leader of peer counselors not only in Zamani Research Institute but also in the entire neighborhood.
